

MARKET REPORT – WEEK 5

BASED ON SALES AND PURCHASES OF VESSELS WEEK ENDED FRIDAY 1ST FEBRUARY 2019.

While we described world economics including the dry shipping markets in week 4 of 2019 as showing 'slightly bearish sentiment', it would not be an exaggeration to describe last week's dry cargo market as having 'completely fallen out of bed....'.

Last week's BDI performance requires red ink only, and lots of it, because it managed to lose nearly 29% of its value having started the week on 905 points and closing on 645 which is back to the sort of levels we were last at in the 2nd Q 2016. The contribution to such a dire performance was across the entire dry cargo field with the BCI leading the way via a -41.5% w-o-w drop, while the BPI and BSI each declined by -25% and -22% respectively. The BHSI was also off by -21.5%.

While we had been suggesting that this week's early Chinese New Year was the primary reason for the dry cargo chartering apathy post Christmas, we now have to be concerned that the sheer amount of current world political instability (Brexit), posturing (Venezuela, France) and even fighting (trade wars), could prolong the economic bearishness being exhibited across the globe until some of these major issues eg Brexit and US / China trade wars are resolved.

Predictably therefore, bulker S+P volume is now down and anyone keen to sell has to now face the inevitable pressure on values too.

Even though the Wet freight markets (dirty and clean) have also been in slight decline since the beginning of the year it is only by very small amounts and so far has not caused any noticeable decline in the post crash, cautious optimism mode those markets have been in since the end of 2018.

It seems there is nothing new to report from the recycling markets in the sub continent with Bangladesh remaining the current most active and best paying region, however, their available plot space and therefore buying appetite is not infinite.
